Born in Montreal Canada, Julianne was raised in a household filled with the sounds of all genres from her parents love of music. As she grew, her ear became more drawn towards Pop-soul and R&B.

Influences growing up such as Michael Jackson, Destiny's Child and Mariah Carey were a source of her staple diet. In the present, these influences still play a part of her sound.

Julianne gained Akon's attention after being asked to perform at the initial launch for Hitlab. Akon's quote after her performance was simple, "I honestly never thought that big voice could come out of that little body."

Using this experience as a catapult, Julianne went on to perform her songs in her local town to NYC.

She collaborated with the likes of Zachary "Soke" Raymond, member of the group Banx & Ranx (Olly Murs, Sean Paul, Taio Cruz, Ella Eyre), Juno nominated songwriter-producer Albert Chambers, Steven J. Robinson (Selena Gomez, Hailee Steinfeld, Mr. Talkbox), Grammy award winner David "Swagg R'Celious" Harris (H.E.R/Kehlani/Elle Varner) and more.

With over half a million streams and her music being shared in more than 4000 playlists, you can hear her music in a few promotional campaigns for the Canadian fashion brand Dynamite, Psycho Mean Queen movie and renowned Youtube beauty moguls Desi Perkins and Dulce Candy vlogs.
